5 REASONS CHRISTIAN HIGHER EDUCATION WORKS FOR YOU

You have unanswered questions, and the Bible study does not go deep enough. God's been nudging you toward doing something about it.

Here are 5 reasons Christian higher education can work for you.

1. We take the guesswork out of the learning process.

"Can I search the web and watch videos and listen to podcasts to learn?"

Yes, self-learning is one method to take. To achieve the best results, one must be ready to learn, set goals, have a learning process in place and be able to evaluate what they have learned. High self-motivation is essential.

What is the difference between the self-directed learner and a student in a course?

University and college courses are led by instructors with experience in the field of study. They would set the learning goals, provide engaging learning opportunities and oversee learning evaluation with valuable feedback. They act as the coach and encourage student success while providing critical feedback to improve the student's competency level. The student still needs to be motivated but are not alone in the process.

2. We provide a format that fits your busy schedule.

"Do I have to attend a physical classroom?"

No. MCC uses a learning management system (LMS) named Populi. It is the virtual classroom where you interact with the instructor and fellow classmates. There are no 50-minute lectures like a typical course but a 10-minute introduction to each lesson from your instructor.

"Are there lessons each week?"

Yes. There are 1 lesson per week for 8 weeks for certificate courses, and 1 lesson per week for 12 weeks for Master's program courses.

"When are assignments due each week?"

Thursday and Sunday each week. Assignments include class discussion and a short paper with the occasional self-reflection. Assignments are based upon the readings.

3. We provide a setting for learning through discussion and feedback.

"What are class discussions?"

Class discussions are the heart of the learning process where you interact with your fellow classmates. Structured questions guide the conversation each week. Students write a post based upon their reading and provide feedback to their classmates' posts. An instructor also contributes insights and questions to encourage feedback.

4. It's never too late to learn.

"Am I too old to take a class? I've been out of school for some time."

No one is too old. Learning is only prohibited by one's own self-limitations. We'll help you become familiar with our learning management system and guide you through any problems along the way. If you can read and write a sentence, and have graduated High School (or have an undergrad if you're interested in our Masters degree), then you are ready to learn.

5. Experience leads to confidence.

How will taking a course make a difference in my life?

You will experience focused learning with other like-minded individuals through the guidance of an instructor who knows the way, and who encourages everyone to think critically.

You will put into practice your ability to assess, evaluate, and communicate to others what you are studying.

You will have confidence because you have walked the ground, asked the right questions, and are able to evaluate competing thoughts, ideas, and outright false leads through critical thinking.

INVEST IN YOUR FAITH THIS SUMMER

Larissa Weatherby

As I head into another summer,

I've been reflecting on Ecclesiastes 3, where Solomon writes that there is a season for everything. As the daughter of a farmer, this passage has always resonated with me deeply. Seasons were tangible in our home growing up—visible in fields, weather patterns, and harvest rhythms. But as a Christian, it's especially comforting to know that spiritual seasons exist too.

We know we won't always live on the mountaintop—and thank God, the valleys don't last forever either.

For me, summer is not a straightforward season. With vacations, camps, and shifting routines, it's easy to get thrown off schedule. In the midst of the busy intensity of camp ministry, I'm learning to be more intentional about how I invest in my faith during these months.

Ecclesiastes 3:1

There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens:

This year, I've been working through a Bible-in-a-year reading plan on the YouVersion app. I'm reading it with a friend, and the accountability has been so helpful. I know that if I fall behind a few days, she'll encourage me to keep going—and I want to do the same for her.

Another goal I've set for myself is to read at least one Christian book per month. I plan to keep that going over the summer—and hopefully catch up on a couple of the months I've missed too.

One practice I'm intentionally carrying into the summer is grace. I want to make realistic goals. I've learned that if I promise myself I'll spend an hour every day in silent prayer, I'll end up failing and then feeling guilty by the end of week one. So instead, I'm leaning into breath prayers and worshipping God in the beauty of His creation—especially during this season when His handiwork is on full display.

I'm also making an effort to find worship opportunities where I'm not serving. I'm really looking forward to events like the Maritime Christian Fellowship and the evening worship services at camp.

Wherever this summer finds you—whether it be a frazzled VBS experience or soaking up endless beach days (or hopefully a little of both!)—I encourage you to pause and ask: What's my plan for staying rooted in Christ this summer?

Whatever your season, don't let it pass without seeking a deeper relationship with Jesus.

MCC Enrollment (September to August)

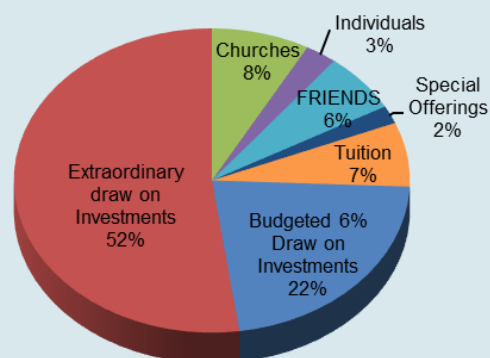

Headcount - Full-time, Part-time, and Auditing Students

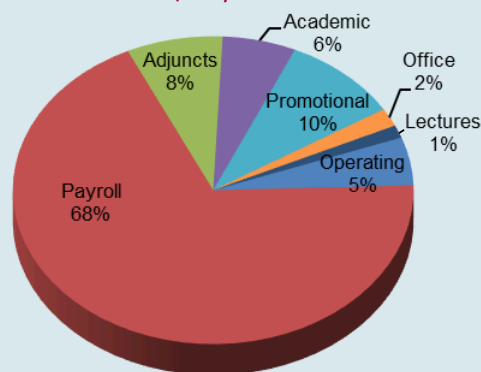

Full-time Equivalency (FTE) - Full-time students plus full-time equivalent of part-time student credit hours; no audit

2024 Operating Revenue $664,544

2024 Expenses $663,981

Fiscal Highlights from 2024

- Total overall income vs. 2023 was lower by $98,981. This was offset by total overall expenses being lower vs. 2023 by $110,570. These changes were mostly related to the property sale in 2023.
- Overall tuition income was lower by $15,283 due to fewer students in the MA Program and moving the start of the first course in the Disciple Maker's Path Certificate to January 2025.
- Donations from individuals and churches decreased by $30,539 from 2023, which caused a higher draw on investments.
- The Director of Marketing position started on July 1, 2025. The cost of this additional staff person is covered by eliminating fees paid to contractors for marketing, social media recruitment activities, and website support and development.
- MCC received a clean audit of 2024 financials.

MOMENTUM

Richard Jones

For several years our June edition of the Messenger has featured an "Annual Enrollment and Financial Report" for Maritime Christian College (MCC).

One of the biggest challenges in reviewing student enrollment numbers or last year's financials is that we're looking in the rearview mirror—trying to make decisions about the road ahead based on what's already behind us. For instance if you look at the student enrollment, it is clear that by 2019-2020 MCC faced an "existential crisis" with student enrollment dropping to an unsustainable level, sparking Board and staff concerns about MCC's future. Thankfully, our Board and staff committed to forging a new path forward through prayer, the Holy Spirit's guidance, and stepping out in faith centered around disciple making following New Testament principles.

As I reflect on this month's theme of momentum, it's clear that MCC's forward motion is continuing to be fueled by our response to real challenges:

First, enrollment is down across all Christian higher education platforms. In response, we're actively researching what kind of education people are seeking—especially practical, certificate-based learning that fits into busy lives. MCC switched to an online learning format - and our student enrollment has climbed significantly.

Second, the cost of education remains a major barrier. We're addressing this by offering the first course in each certificate program for free. We are able to continue making education affordable by transparently sharing our progress toward long-term sustainability, thanks to donor support.

Finally, we're working to demonstrate the value of an MCC education in a world where free content is everywhere. Through financial aid, free courses, and church partnerships, we're helping students discover MCC as a worthwhile investment in their spiritual and leadership growth, whether they are studying in our Master of Arts in Ministry Leadership Degree or one of our certificate programs.

"I'VE ALREADY STARTED TAKING STEPS TO IMPLEMENT WHAT I'VE LEARNED, AND I'M EAGER TO SEE THE IMPACT IT WILL HAVE."

STUDENT REVIEW

We continue to see interest from students all over the world who value MCC's approach to education and our focus on disciple making. It is my prayer that this momentum we have been experiencing will be reflected in our student enrollment for the upcoming fall 2025 semester.

In the meantime, I hope you read this edition of the Messenger with hope and anticipation of what the Lord has in store for Maritime Christian College, and will continue to support MCC's efforts in making disciples all over the world. 📺
